

What's Complex About Forms?

When To Validate?

When form is submitted

Allows the user to enter a valid value before warning him / her

Avoid unnecessary warnings but maybe present feedback "too late"

When a input is losing focus

Very useful for untouched forms

On every keystroke

Warns user before he / she had a chance of entering valid values

If applied only on invalid inputs, has the potential of providing more direct feedback
